Respected principal

Department of Biotechnology (DBT) Govt of India has initiated programme on use of Foldscope microscopy . The foldscope is an origami microscope that has potential to change the way we view life and microorganisms around us . It was invented a few years ago by Mr. Manu Prakash and Mr. Jim Cybulski from Stanford University USA. This can effectively used by teachers/ Scientists to transact the concepts of science and it is also very cost effective .

We are organizing the awareness programme on foldscope microscopy . This programme is sponsored by DBT (Department of Biotechnology, Govt. of India) to disseminate knowledge on use of foldscope microscopy in various fields of science and agriculture. In this connection, training programme will be organized at GCW, Gandhinagar, Jammu. Kindly confirm the date of programme

REPORT OF TWO-DAYS BLOCK AND SCREEN PRINTING WORKSHOP

Department of Home Science organized two-days block and Screen printing workshop with the aim of introducing participants to the art of block and screen printing and providing them with hands-on experience. The workshop took place on 23rd and 24th of January 2020 at Department of Home Science. Participants were guided by an experienced artist and educator, Mr. Subhash Langleh, HOD Department of Textile Technology, Government Polytechnic College, who shared his expertise and knowledge in the field of block and screen printing.

Day 1: Block Printing The first day of the workshop focused on block printing. Participants were introduced to the history, materials, and techniques involved in this art form. The session began with a presentation on the origins and cultural significance of block printing, showcasing examples of block-printed textiles and artworks from different regions.

After the introduction, participants learned about the various tools and materials used in block printing. They were provided with carving tools, ink, and fabric to practice with. The facilitators demonstrated the process of creating a design on a block and transferring it onto fabric.

Following the demonstration, participants were given the opportunity to create their own designs. They sketched their ideas on paper and received guidance from the instructors in refining their designs. Once the designs were finalized, participants transferred them onto their respective blocks in preparation for the printing process.

Participants were then taught different printing techniques, including block alignment, ink application, and fabric handling. They practiced printing their designs on various fabrics, experimenting with different color combinations and patterns. The instructors provided feedback and guidance to help participants improve their printing skills.

Day 2: Screen Printing On the second day, participants delved into the art of screen printing. They were introduced to the concept of screen printing and its applications in various fields, such as textile design, poster making, and fine art. The facilitators explained the process of preparing screens, applying emulsion, and creating stencils.

Participants learned how to prepare their designs for screen printing and how to transfer them onto screens. They were taught about different types of inks, mesh sizes, and screen printing tools. The instructors demonstrated proper ink application, screen alignment, and printing techniques.

Participants had the opportunity to practice screen printing on different materials such as paper and fabric. They explored the possibilities of multi-color printing and experimented with layering and registration techniques. The instructors provided individual attention and guidance, helping participants overcome challenges and achieve high-quality prints.

Conclusion: The two-day block and screen printing workshop provided participants with a comprehensive understanding of two distinct printing techniques. Through theoretical knowledge, hands-on practice, and expert guidance, participants developed the skills necessary to create their own block and screen prints. The workshop fostered a sense of creativity and collaboration among the participants, who shared ideas and experiences throughout the learning process. The instructors' expertise and encouragement played a vital role in creating a supportive and inspiring environment.

By combining the art forms of block printing and screen printing, the workshop offered participants a broader range of creative possibilities. It served as a platform for exploring and expanding their artistic horizons, while also preserving and celebrating traditional printing methods.

Overall, the workshop was a resounding success, leaving participants motivated and inspired to continue their journey in the world of block and screen printing. ## OUTCOMES OF THE ACTIVITY

The NEP is a comprehensive and nuanced policy document. Knowledge of NEP:2020 can provide a deeper understanding of the policy's key principles, objectives, and implications. Teachers can gain insights into the rationale behind the policy, its focus areas, and the desired outcomes. This understanding is crucial for aligning their teaching practices with the policy's vision.

Knowledge of NEP:2020 can help college teachers comprehend the practical aspects of implementing the policy. They can gain clarity on the specific changes that might occur in the curriculum, assessment methods, teaching approaches, and evaluation systems. This knowledge enables them to proactively adapt their teaching methods to align with the new expectations.

When college teachers attend a lecture/Webinar on NEP, they have the opportunity to interact with the resource person and other participants. Such interactions facilitate networking, idea exchange, and collaboration among educators. Teachers can share their experiences, challenges, and best practices, thereby fostering a community of practice. These connections can extend beyond the lecture and enable ongoing dialogue and support for implementing the NEP effectively.

The Webinar can inspire and motivate college teachers by highlighting the transformative potential of the NEP. By understanding the policy's goals and their role in achieving them, teachers can feel a sense of purpose and renewed enthusiasm for their work. The lecture can instill a sense of responsibility and encourage teachers to become change agents in their respective institutions, contributing to the overall improvement of the education system.

Webinar on NEP:2020 can empower college teachers with knowledge, strategies, and inspiration to embrace the changes and align their teaching practices with the policy's objectives. It can play a pivotal role in fostering professional development, promoting collaboration, and enhancing the quality of education in colleges.

Program Outcomes of Awareness Lecture on "Education Abroad Opportunities"
Dated: 27-03-2023

Studying abroad as an undergraduate student from India can be a life-changing experience that offers numerous benefits, including exposure to different cultures, academic excellence, personal growth, and career opportunities. Some key points which were explained in the lecture for planning to pursue education abroad as an undergraduate from India:

Research and Choose a Destination: Begin by researching different countries and universities that align with your academic interests and career goals. Consider factors such as the quality of education, program offerings, scholarship opportunities, living costs, and visa requirements. Popular destinations for Indian students include the United States, United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, Germany, and Singapore.

Select a Suitable Program: Explore the undergraduate programs available at universities abroad and identify the ones that best match your academic and career aspirations. Look into the curriculum, faculty, research opportunities, and any specific requirements for international students.

Meet Admission Requirements: Understand the admission requirements of your chosen universities. This typically includes submitting academic transcripts, standardized test scores (such as SAT, ACT, or TOEFL/IELTS for English proficiency), letters of recommendation, a personal statement or essay, and sometimes a resume. Be sure to adhere to the application deadlines.

Financial Planning: Studying abroad can be expensive, so it's important to plan your finances accordingly. Research and explore scholarships, grants, and financial aid options specifically available for international students. Additionally, consider the cost of tuition, accommodation, living expenses, healthcare, and travel.

Visa Process: Once you receive an offer of admission, you will need to apply for a student visa for the country you will be studying in. Check the specific visa requirements and process for your chosen destination and ensure that you have all the necessary documents, such as a valid passport, acceptance letter, financial proof, and health insurance.

Accommodation and Travel: Research accommodation options, whether it's university-provided housing, private rentals, or host families. Plan your travel arrangements, including booking flights, arranging airport transfers, and familiarizing yourself with the local transportation system.

Prepare for Cultural Adjustment: Living in a new country can be challenging initially. Familiarize yourself with the local culture, customs, and etiquette. Be open-minded, proactive in making new friends, and seek support from student services or international student offices available at your university.

Health and Safety: Prior to departure, students ensure to have adequate health insurance coverage while studying abroad. Research and follow the necessary health and safety guidelines for your destination, including any required vaccinations.

Stay Connected: Keep in touch with your family and friends back home, and take advantage of opportunities to connect with other international and local students. Join student clubs, participate in social activities, and engage in the cultural experiences your chosen destination offers.

Career Planning: While studying abroad, take advantage of internship programs, career counseling services, and networking opportunities to enhance your career prospects. Seek internships or part-time work experience in your field of interest to gain practical skills and expand your professional network.

They learned about effective strategies for organizing, cataloging, and providing seamless access to e-resources for library users. DELNET emphasised collaboration and resource sharing among libraries. The lecture foster a culture of cooperation among libraries, encouraging attendees to actively participate in interlibrary loan programs, knowledge exchange, and cooperative projects.
